I stopped listening to corporate radio because I was tired of all the same information and music being played on different stations. I have become a believer in satilite radio, not only do the offer varied types of music but news and information that I could not get on corporate radio. I chose to pay to listen rather than have corporations pay to force me to listen to what they want me to hear. Please do not give the corporations the upper hand, let me choose for myself what I want to listen to.

Sincerely,

Jeph Folkins
